The Reds were not as successful, only putting on the small total of 34, owing to the fine bowling of Sellars and McCready. The Reds' batting again brought the total up to 114, leaving 11 runs for the Blues yet to win, which they did with the loss of six wickets, thus winning the series. There are some promising young players among the choir boys which the Andover Cricket club ought to keep an eye on.

OWES HIS LIFE TO A NEIGHBOR'S KINDNESS.

Mr. D. P. Daugherty, well known throughout Mercer and Sumner counties, W. V., most likely owes his life to the kindness of a neighbor. He was hopelessly afflicted with diarrhoea; was attended by two physicians who gave him little, if any, relief, when a neighbor learning of his serious condition, brought him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which cured him in less than twenty-four hours. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

Wedding.

HAYNES—STARK.

The marriage of Miss S. Jennie Stark and Roy Milton Haynes took place Thursday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock, at the home of the bride on Marland street. It was a quiet home wedding, only the immediate friends and relatives being present. The bride was very handsomely attired in white brussells net and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Miss Grace Clemons was bridesmaid and was very prettily robed in white mull and carried a bouquet of white pinks. J. W. Stark, brother of the bride, was best man. John Fletcher, grandfather of the bride, played Lohengrin's wedding march. The marriage took place under a handsome arch of asparagus and golden rod. The room was very artistically decorated with oak leaves and asters. Rev. Edwin Smith performed the ceremony, using the double ring service. The presents were numerous and costly, consisting of silver, glass, china and a number of very handsome pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes are two of the most popular and well known young people in the Village, both having taken an active part in the social and religious life of the community. A number of guests were present from Boston, Waltham, Medford, Dorchester, Melrose, Somerville and N. H. and [illegible] ...wer of rice and With best wishes of a host of friends, on a wedding trip to New York, and up the Hudson.

Held Annual Outing.

The second annual outing of the Sweet Pea club of Lawrence, was held last Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Billington, Ballardvale. The party comprised about twenty-five of the former neighbors and friends of Mr. Billington from Lake street and vicinity. Those who attended the outing last year reported such a fine time that all anticipated a very enjoyable day. To say the least all their hopes were fully realized. The weather was perfect and the residence and grounds on High street never presented a handsomer appearance. Croquet, pingpong and boating helped to make the afternoon pass only too quickly. Miss Alice Eastham with a few well chosen words presented Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Billington with a silver cracker jar, and a painted cake plate as tokens of their esteem and friendship.

A sumptuous repast was served after the bowling and a musical entertainment followed. The party returned to their homes in Lawrence on the 10.20 train, and it was unanimously agreed by all that the second annual outing of the Sweet Pea club had been an unqualified success.

Mrs. Mollie Allen of South Fork, Ky., says she has prevented attacks of cholera morbus by taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets when she felt an attack coming on. Such attacks are usually caused by indigestion and these Tablets are just what is needed to cleanse the stomach and ward off the approaching attack. Attacks of bilious colic may be prevented in the same way. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

A LESSON IN POLITENESS.

A college student who had more money than brains once entered Dean Van Amringe's lecture room, and advancing to the desk began to state his business without removing his hat.

"Excuse me a moment," said the professor, rising. He went to a corner of the lecture room and returned with his hat in his hand. Putting it on and sitting down again, he turned to the student and said:

"Now, sir, you may go on."—San Francisco Argonaut.

DO NOT DOSE THE STOMACH

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it by drugging the stomach. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would have said the only way to cure catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with Hyomei you can carry a health giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day soon cure yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

E. M. & W. A. Allen have sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more they sell the more convinced they are that they are perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not cure.

SALEM IS JEALOUS OF NEW COURT HOUSE.

SALEM, Sept. 14—Old Essex county is disturbed, and the green demon of jealousy is tickled. Lawrence now has the finest courthouse in the county. Salem courthouse facilities are condemned. Lawrence is ambitious to become the county seat of Essex county, or to establish a new county in the Merrimac valley. Salem thinks that it has been given a back seat in county matters, so there is now trouble ahead in the staid old county of Essex.

Salem has long had the cream of the court sittings in Essex county, but Lawrence now demands it, claiming superior court facilities. Lawrence also wants Newburyport cut off the map as a shire town, and the bones of Joppa are thereby shaken. It will take an act of the legislature to change court sittings from Newburyport to Lawrence, but the Mill city politicians do not think working the legislature much of a task. They got $250,000 for courthouse improvements through that body, while Salem got only $50,000 for land and plans for a courthouse, and then the shrewd Lawrencites got a courthouse addition built, costing the full $250,000, while Salem's $50,000 appropriation was pigeonholed, with its petition from lawyers for an additional courthouse in Salem.

It is the probate court building in Salem that comes in for such general condemnation on the part of the lawyers. The building was erected in 1841, and it still has "before the war" conveniences, besides being overcrowded. Occasionally, visitors to historic Salem mistake its court room for the room in which Judge Hawthorne tried the witches in 1692. It is a dark and gloomy chamber, and at its entrance is an old-fashioned, three-hooked hatrack that might have hung in some squire's office.

The lawyers also miss consulting rooms. When a Boston lawyer comes to Salem to close a real estate deal, he may arrange final terms and pass money and papers in Register Hale's main office, where visitors are many, or he may walk around the block with his client and talk business on the way.

Consulting rooms are unknown at the registry, except by hearsay, as are private offices. When Register Hale wants to talk private business with any lawyer at the registry, he has to whisper with him over his desk. He, [illegible] ...the monotony of their researches of records, may retire to the furnace room in winter, or meander up and down the lawn in summer, and either place is likely to be hotter than the realm where lawyers expect to never go.

But there are greater reasons why the lawyers are disturbed. There is not room enough in the registry to keep the records. Books are getting piled so high in Register Mahoney's quarters that only six-foot lawyers are able to conveniently get at them and the short lawyers are threatening to get stilts. Register Hale is in a predicament as to the future of the records, for his office is jammed fuller than a trolley car at supper hour.

Besides, there is not room enough to accommodate the clerks needed to do the work of the registry, and as a result the lawyers are much delayed.—Boston Advertiser.

DIPLOMACY.

The seat facing forward was filled, containing six women and one man.

So the newcomer had to sit on the other seat, facing the entire carload of passengers.

As the conductor's bell rang it's starting "Ding-Ding," and the motorman turned on the current the plump woman said severely to the solitary man occupying a place on the other side:

"I think you might have been at least enough of a gentleman to offer to change places with me!"

"I had carefully considered that matter, madam, before you spoke," rejoined the man, earnestly, "and had decided that for the good of all we had better remain as we are. It would be an insult to the passengers back of us for me to sit facing them and showing my homely features after they had caught even a glimpse of your pronounced comeliness. They would resent the substitution and possibly do violence to both of us—do you understand?"

"Perfectly, my dear sir," replied she, with a smile "and I wish to implore your pardon for having so underrated your gallantry."—Baltimore American.

LIANG CHEN TUNG ON AMERICAN CUSTOMS.

"Now in China," he said, 'our fashions never change. I wear the same sort of hat, the same sort of coat, the same sort of shoes that a man in my position wore a thousand years ago. And it is the same with the Chinese women. Their fashions also have not changed in I know not how many dynasties. Long ago in China we found the costumes that seemed to us the most graceful and the most comfortable, and we cling to those costumes. We love them.

"But you here in America, how often is it, every week, every fortnight, that you change your fashions? Only the other day I met on the street an American naval officer of whom I am fond. He had a parcel under his arm. I stopped my carriage.

"'Come I said, 'let us have a little chat, a comfortable little chat.'

"But the naval officer shook his head. He said hurriedly:

"'No, I cannot. In this parcel there is a bonnet for my wife. Were I to stop and talk the fashion in bonnets might change before I reached home.'"—Boston Post.

MAITRE LABORI DEFINES OLD AGE.

Maitre Labori, the noted French advocate who defended the Humberts is not remarkable in Paris so much for the eloquence as for the neatness and the polish of his speeches.

An American journalist heard Labori in court one day. He says the advocate's address was full of grace, wit, tenderness. He quotes a passage relating to old age, wherein Labori, with a smile, said:

"Old age—we shall none us quite understand that until we have attained to it—for no one of us here is old. But the other day I visited my uncle, a very aged man.

"'What is it like, uncle,' I said 'to be old?'

And my uncle answered:

"'It is like this: When one is young, one polite's attentions to women are taken for declarations of love; but when one is old, one's declarations of love are taken for polite attentions.'"—Boston Post.

"He has just recently been elected High Muck-a-Muck of the Ancient Knight of Pink-Pank.

"Has he been installed in office yet?"

"I guess you might say he's 'installed' sure enough. He's buying his regalia on the instalment plan."—Philadelphia Press.

"Strange about that boy who walked out of a second story window while he was asleep and didn't wake up even after his fall, although he wasn't hurt."

"Yes, I guess some one called to him to get up for breakfast just as he stepped out. That usually sends a boy sounder to sleep than ever."—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

WORN IN NEW YORK.

From the Advertiser.

New York—While few new gowns are in evidence in town, hats, parasols and other necessary adjuncts of the toilet are continually being renewed, and novelties are of necessity constantly appearing.

A white taffeta parasol had a double ruffle of black chiffon at its outer edge, and above this was a small puff of the chiffon, headed by a narrow ruche. At the top of the ebony stick were full ruchings of chiffon. Another white taffeta parasol for half mourning had inch wide ruchings of black tulle outlining bow-knots on each panel and a fold of black taffeta edged each lapel. The stick was ebony inlaid with jet. A parasol of brilliant scarlet silk had a perfect but tiny French poodle carved in black as a finish to its black enameled grip. The poodle was sheared in the approved lion fashion, and had one paw raised to shake hands.

A beautiful all black parasol of soft black silk covered with black thread lace and finished by a narrow ruffle of the same lace was lined with tucked chiffon. The long and tapering round handle was made of tortoise shell ornamented with a half dozen burnished gold rings. These rings were put on in groupes of two, some three inches apart. The wider ringes were an eighth of an inch broad, and the narrow ones 1-16 of an inch across. A silvery haired woman carried this expensive creation, and it formed a charming setting for her aristocratic face.

Pale pink parasols with borders of large pink roses are beatiful, while another in a delicate shade of blue, with flowering at its edges, is exquisite.

A black parasol had a large medallion of white lace flowers and leaves on each panel and six inch flounce of point lace. The handle was ivory, with traceries in gun-metal.

The woman with the well filled purse buys a parasol to match the hue of each street gown or else one whose colors form a striking contrast. White parasols unrelieved by any color are less in evidence this summer than in previous years.

Nothing prettier than the lingerie hats is to be found. Exquisite white silk mulls shirred on fine wires, and finished with lace frills, are veritable "dreams," while the white point d'esprit, with ruffles of the same and a coquettish knot or two of black velvet, are pretty enough to satisfy the woman of modest means. For wearing in the country at suitable times and places, the lingererie hat is by long odds the most youthful and becoming of chapeaus.

Suggestions of early autumn are seen in certain hats offered at modish shops, and already worn on the avenue by several fashionable women. Wheat and poppies are the decorations. One large light yellow straw with a low crown and a wide brim had bunches of the ripe wheat lying on the brim, and dark orange and pale yellow poppies were mixed with the grain, and were also used under the brim. Another ecru straw had wheat ears radiating out from the crown, which was banded with autumn leaves.

Rain coats continue to make their appearance. A handsome one in dark golden brown satin finished silk has its collar of velvet to match, and is lined with plaid silk in brown, red and pale lemon. It is loose in the back, but the fullness is held in by two straps, ornamented with large white pearl buttons. The wide coat sleeves have at the bottom of each three small tabs of the material, each tab ending in a point, held down by a large white pearl button. Straps of the material pointed at both ends, and having the white pearl buttons at each end, close the coat.

One woman's rain wrap is a circular cape falling from neck to feet. It is a vivid scarlet, and the capuchine hood is lined with plaid silk, in which scarlet is the leading hue. This cape is unlined, except that part above the waist, which has an inner cape of the plaid silk.

"It is a great thing to be ready when the time comes," said a wise mother to her daughter who declared that here was no use taking singing lessons when she had no voice to speak of. "No one can tell what will develop," continued the experienced woman of the world. "I have seen so many cases wherein latent ability has shown itself at unexpected periods of one's life that I always feel that technical knowledge of every kind will at some time or other be called into play."

The girl, to please her mother, but as it turned out afterward most fortunately for herself; studied voice music most faithfully. Her vocal chords became stronger, and as she grew older and reached her full developement the tones of her inperfect organ strengthened and deepened until a fine mezzo-soprano voice rewarded her for her exertions. But even then the result of her mother's far reaching wisdom did not stop.

Left by the death of her father in straitened circumstances, she found that her thorough knowledge of technical singing enabled her to become a teacher of prominence, thereby providing her with a income that was an ample provision for both herself and her mother.

"I do not know that I think a great display of wealth in one's bedrom altogether in good taste," remarked a transatlantic visitor.

"In England in the best houses of the old regime you find everything in the world that really adds to your comfort. The finest of bed linen, delicious towels, and all that one really needs on the dressing and writing tables. But nothing fancy—hemstitched linen sheets, perhaps, but no lace, no incrustations of uncomfortable crests or monograms on the pillowcases, only smooth, fragrant, shining white linen.

"I have never seen such display of luxury as you have over here. In one house I stopped at the lace in the bedroom must have cost a fortune! Real Irish point, such as we would only put on gowns, was used to trim the sheets and pillowcases and the drapery on the dressing table. You felt how costly everything was everywhere you turned. Why, even the leather binding on the books was colored to match the tint of the Japanese silk margins on the wall!

"There was a medicine cabinet filled with remedies, which struck me as very funny, and various kinds of toilet waters in the bedroom. The latter, I must admit, was ideal. Never in England have I seen such luxury provided for one's daily bath, and how I was to reconcile myself to a tin tub again, which is all I can hope for on my English visits, I do not know. Certainly, Americans are a luxurious people, and they remind one not a little of the ancient Romans in the days of their opulence."

Among the the attractive novelties this season in ceramics is the graceful little urn for coffee and tea dregs. When decorated with a design of blossoms of the tea or coffee plant this urn is as appropriate as it is ornamental. Another novelty in ceramics is the sabot, which comes in several sizes, and is intended for a vase. Flowers look especially well when arranged in it, and violets adapt themselves admirably to its contour.

Guests finding at their places at table a minature cup and saucer many feel in some doubt as to its purpose. The cup and saucer which are made in one piece represent the new celery dip. Decorations of tiny forget-me-nots or arbutus embellish these little dips. The wine cup is a new and pretty change from the ordinary way of serving claret in a glass. Made of thin china, handleless, slender in shape, and decorated perhaps with tiny rosebud wreaths, the cup is a dainty addition to the dinner table.

The new china spoon holder is a great improvement on the old one. It is much easier to pick up the spoon from this oval-shaped receptacle than from its predecessor, in which the spoon lay flat. A pleasing innovation in the handles of vases, cups or candlesticks is that which simulates a ribbon, having a graceful waving outline.

No game has increased more in popularity among women than bowling. Tournaments, especially for women, have been quite the craze at the large summer resorts, nor does the interest manifested in the game seem to be abating, for now that the summer is drawing to a close many clubs are being organized for the winter.

Bowling promises even to take the place of afternoon euchre, though many women will, of course, cling to their cards.

Bowling is first rate exercise for women, provided they indulge in it judiciously. It strengthens the muscles of the back and greatly aids in the development of the neck and arms. It is true that it makes one side stronger than the other, but this objection applies to the majority of games, and the danger will be lessened considerably if the player tries to use the left arm occasionally.

This is not so difficult as it seems, and a little practice will enable one to deliver a fairly good ball. A lighter ball will probably have to be used at first; and right here is where most women injure themselves in bowling. They try to use balls much too heavy, and consequently, before the season is ended, they may have some more or less serious trouble. A light ball swiftly thrown, or rather rolled, invariably does its work better than a very heavy one, which, unless sent with sufficient force, goes lumbering down the alley, probably rolling off into the gutter at the side before reaching the pins.

Much success in bowling depends on a thorough knowledge of the alleys. Often these are not quite true, and one has to find out irregularities for one's self and manoeuvre a little to overcome them. Authorities differ on the method of delivery. Some advocate rolling the ball directly down the centre, and others prefer rolling from the side. Many men use a curved ball, as it is called, but that requires some amount of skill. Regardless of the manner of delivery, however, the ball should be held firmly and the arm swung from the shoulder, and care should be taken not to allow the wrist to turn just as the ball is leaving the hand, as this will swerve it from the intended course.

In organizing a club it is advisable to begin early in the season for several reasons. In the first place the desired people may be asked before they have joined or promised to join other clubs. Then the alley must be selected in good time, so that the choice of an afternoon may be secured. From 12 to 16 is about the best number for a bowling club, as this gives six or eight to a side when there are two alleys, but, above everything else, the members must be congenial if things are to run smoothly.

Members should avoid forming little cliques, which come quite naturally, but which soon begin to divide the club.

In the evening clubs refreshments are served after bowling, and usually consist of something like cheese and crackers, sardines or sandwiches and coffee, but in the afternoon it is often difficult to have anything served. In this case the women might take turns in bringing a few dainties, and the hot coffee or chocolate could easily be dispensed with. One might bring sandwiches, another cake and a third some homemade confection like fudge or salted almonds. These little snatches between times are very acceptable, and yet are not enough to impair the appetite for a more substantial meal later. If a chafing dish were kept there would be no end to the titbits that could be had, but this would hardly be advisable, as the players would be going directly home to dinner, and if too many goodies were served a poor appetite would surely follow.

SOFT CORE

Like the running brook, the red blood that flows through the veins has to come from somewhere.

The springs of red blood are found in the soft core of the bones called the marrow and some say red blood also comes from the spleen. Healthy bone marrow and healthy spleen are full of fat.

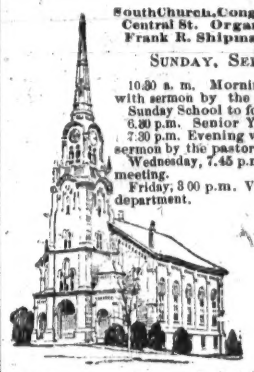

Scott's Emulsion makes new blood by feeding the bone marrow and the spleen with the richest of all fats, the pure cod liver oil.

For pale school girls and invalids and for all whose blood is thin and pale, Scott's Emulsion is a pleasant and rich blood food. It not only feeds the blood-making organs but gives them strength to do their proper work.

The Big Schools Open.

Phillips, Abbot, and the Seminary have all opened their doors this week to another year of active work. From all three institutions the stories are most gratifying; of larger attendance than for some time at Phillips, of an increase at the Seminary, and a most satisfactory entering class at Abbot.

Things are in splendid shape at all of these schools. With Mr. Stearns at Phillips a new regime has its first complete year of trial. That it will win in all that makes success for a great school is sure, and the increased attendance is a happy augury of that result. The Seminary shows a gain, and Dr. Day and his associates thus get well earned encouragement in their good work.

The rising walls of the beautiful McKeen building attest to the material growth at Abbot. The real work of the school itself is sure to be kept up to a high standard as long as the present wise management directs the affairs.

Well may Andover people be very happy over the condition of three of the town's richest jewels.

Editorial Cinders.

"Old Paths and Legends of New England"; who could write, more entertainingly upon such a title as that, or from a larger acquaintance with the subject, than Miss Katharine M. Abbott, whose name appears on the title page? It is a beautiful volume that makes up the "legends", and its pretentiousness and real merit is only what those who have followed the work of this young author have long expected. Miss Abbott's friends in Andover will be delighted with the book, and be happy over the success it is sure to have.

••••

Last week we cried out for strawberries, and here they are. Ripe berries were picked from the vines by Mr. Benj. W. Farnum last Monday, with green ones on the vines to assure another crop if good weather holds. And not alone from Mr. Farnum are we receiving strawberries, for almost before the ink is dry on above Mr. E. R. Barton brings in a sample of luscious fruit picked this morning. The two-crops-a-year cups of joy is certainly now full.

The Phillips faculty is in the harness again, well rested after the long summer vacation. None of them can take keener satisfaction in any summer achievement than does Prof. Forbes over the championship golf cup he won at Nantucket, unless it be that taken by Prof. Forbes himself over the fact that his recently published "Cicero" is already in its second edition.

And speaking of books leads to a word of congratulation to another Andover professor, Mr. Benner, whose Homer's Iliad is seen this week for the first time upon the book store counter, and which is a counterpart of its handsome Latin companion above referred to.

The caucuses come next week; republican Wednesday and democratic on Thursday evening. The quiet in Andover is but an echo throughout the state; nevertheless, the duty is a most pressing one for every citizen to attend his party caucus, and we trust that the duty will not be neglected this year.

Fall Flower Show.

The annual exhibition of the Massachusetts Horticultural society, September 24, 25, 26 and 27, at Horticultural hall, Boston, of plants, flowers, fruits and vegetables, promises to be the most interesting and one of the largest exhibitions ever held by the society, as the October exhibition will be incorporated in this one.

Good music will be rendered every afternoon and evening.

The last day occurring on Sunday will give those persons fully engaged during week days an opportunity to enjoy a day of quiet rest.

BIG SCHOOLS OPEN

Abbot, Phillips and Theological Seminary Begin with Bright Prospects

Once more Andover's famous educational institutions are in full sway and the prospects for a successful year are brighter than ever. The changes which have been made on Zion's hill this summer have not been of such an extensive character as last year but several important alterations have been made. At Phillips, probably the most important change was the remodeling of the Academy building and the transferring of some of the houses owned by the trustees into dormitories. The English Commons have all been torn down and the land graded. Brothers' Field will be used for games for the first time this year.

At the Andover Theological Seminary, the year opened auspiciously on Wednesday afternoon and the prospects are good for a successful year.

At Abbot the studies began Thursday with a bright outlook for a prosperous season. The McKeen Memorial building is rapidly developing shape. As a whole the institutions this year are in a way to keep up the fine reputation that Andover has won as an educational center.

For the past week or so the registration at the Phillips Inn has been the largest in its history, being compelled on some days to turn away guests for lack of accommodations. On Tuesday, September 14, 69 guests were registered.

Abbot Academy

Abbot Academy opened Thursday morning, Sept. 17. There are two changes in the Faculty—Miss Converse of Radcliffe takes the place of Miss Tryon who is now teaching in the Girls' High School, Boston, and Miss Bacon's work is given to Miss Lawrence, also a Radcliffe graduate who received the M. A. degree this year from her alma mater. Everyone is interested in the McKeen Memorial hall, which has made such progress during the summer.

Phillips Academy

Phillips Academy opened yesterday, entering upon the 126th year in its history with an apparent increase in attendance, although the full membership cannot be told until the members of the senior class register after college examinations next week. Among the new students are Tsai Koa Tsao and Jen Huan, two of the Chinese boys brought to this country by Sir Chentung to secure an American education. These boys come from two of the most wealthy and prominent families in China and represent the progressive element of that country. They will live with Mrs. Jackson on Abbot street.

There have been three new teachers added to the staff this fall: Robert P. Keep, B. A., Yale university, assistant in modern languages and Latin; George H. Richards, B. A., Yale university, instructor in mathematics; and C. C. Schelly, B. A., assistant in English. The houses that were taken by the Academy this summer and converted into dormitories for the accommodation of the students are well filled. There are more boys entering the junior class than usual, the heaviest registration being in the junior and senior classes.

Theological Seminary.

The Andover Theological Seminary opened auspiciously Wednesday afternoon with a service in the Chapel church. This begins the 96th year of its history. The indications are that the attendance of students will be larger than last year, although all the men have not reached Andover. The outlook, however is decidedly good.

The exercises Wednesday afternoon consisted of the usual prayer service conducted by Prof. Day, who spoke a few words to the students and introduced Prof. William R. Arnold, Ph.D., successor of Prof. Geo. F. Moore, D. D., of Cambridge, in the Hitchcock chair of Hebrew, who gave the opening address. His subject was, "The Law in the Religion of Israel." It was a masterly review of the development of the ruling ideas in this religion showing the great clearness and beauty of the development of the idea of the character of God. This address was a new feature in connection with the opening exercises, and a large number of the friends upon the hill, with some from Lawrence and elsewhere, gathered to join in the exercises and to hear the address of Dr. Arnold.

The regular lectures began yesterday and by Monday everything will be in motion. During the present academic year, Rossiter Howard will conduct the singing at the services and Mrs. Gates, wife of Dr. Owen H. Gates of the Theological faculty, will act as organist.

September 22-23-24, the Essex County Cattle Show and Fair will happen. The exhibition of cattle will be a crack-a-jack. The display of flowers, vegetables and dairy products will also be first class. The entertainment features include good bicycle racing, hurdle jumping by the Myopia club, a great street parade and the best of music by the American and Salem Cadet bands.

Round trip tickets at reduced rates to Peabody via the Boston & Maine railroad, good only on above dates will be on sale at this station and other principal stations on the Boston & Maine railroad.

For list of stations and rates, see Boston & Maine posters or inquire of agent.

Punchard High School.

This column will be in charge of Mr. G.W. Low, of the Punchard High School. Matter of interest to pupils, alumni, and friends of the school may be handed to Mr. Low. It is the purpose to present here items relating to the Punchard School, past and present.

The Punchard teachers extend a cordial invitation to all interested in the School to visit them. It is thought that the year has been begun under very auspicious circumstances. The building has been remodeled and improved. The course of study has been modified. The greatest effort has been made by Superintendent, Trustees and Committee to strengthen the school. The pupils and teachers need to feel that the citizens of Andover are interested in their High School.

Mr. Andrews, Supervisor of Drawing, began his work at Punchard Wednesday. Drawing classes will meet each of the six periods every Wednesday throughout the year. The work in drawing is done in the upper hall.

This year Rhetoricals will have place in the program the last half-hour every Friday. Definite plans for this work are not yet perfected.

The first period every Friday is taken up with singing by the whole school in the upper hall under the direction of Miss Hoar.

The gift of the class of 1903 to Punchard is a framed portrait of Mr. Baldwin, former principal. The painting has been received and will be hung soon.

Thursday there was a meeting in Room 3 of boys interested in the formation of a football team.

A LARGE ESTATE

Will of Jacob W. Barnard Filed at Salem for Probate.

Probably no estate has been the subject of more local interest than that of the late Jacob W. Barnard. Several public interests had expected to be remembered as sharers in it upon the decease of Mr. Barnard, and the filing of the will at Salem this week, has given new impetus to the many rumors regarding the same.

The contents of the will are almost wholly of a private nature. There are no public bequests whatever and by the terms of the will no benefits will ever accrue to any public interests from the estate, as the entire amount is left in trust until a term of twenty years shall have elapsed after the death of the last of the direct heirs. The direct heirs to share in the estate are the widow, Mrs. Eliza J. Barnard, Henry W. Barnard, Mrs. Henry W. Barnard, and Mrs. Francis Bergstrom.

The will names as executors Eliza J. Barnard, Henry W. Barnard, Mabel Paradise Barnard and John H. Campion, and the same persons are also made trustees of the estate. The instrument is made under date of February 15, 1900, and carries a codicil dated June 24, 1902.

The estate is reported to amount to about $500,000.

Obituary.

REV. JAMES HOWARD BABBITT.

This good man, well known in Andover from his residence here for the past three years, as well as from family and educational connections with the town, died at the home of Mrs. S. F. Abbott on Monday morning, the 14th, at the age of sixty-four years. He suffered a stroke of apoplexy in December last and a recurrence of the malady on Tuesday of last week, after which he rapidly failed.

Mr. Babbitt was born in Taunton, Jan. 13, 1839, being the son of James H. and Eliza C. (Sweet) Babbitt. His father was a noted mechanic, and the model of the first fire engine used in that city, constructed by him, is carefully preserved there. The son fitted for college at Pierce Academy, Middleboro, and graduated at Amherst College in 1865, having several classmates associated with Andover — Prof. Asa George Abbott (son of Mrs. S. F. Abbott), Prof. James H. Eaton, Prof. George C. Merrill, George D. Kittredge (brother-in-law of Dr. Bancroft), and Hon. William S. Knox, all of whom, save the last named, have passed away before him. He studied theology in Andover Seminary, graduating in 1868, in a class which included Professor Churchill, Prof. John Phelps Taylor, Dr. Daniel Merriman, President Brainerd of Middlebury, President Joseph Ward of Yankton, Dr. De Witt S. Clark of Salem, Joseph Cook, Dr. James W. Cooper, and other prominent men.

A month after his graduation he was ordained in Waitsfield, Vt., and in that State remained through all his ministerial life, his three pastorates being at Waitsfield, Swanton (including also the charge of the church in Highgate), and West Brattleboro. For eighteen years he held in addition the onerous and responsible position of secretary of the State Sunday School Society. A growing deafness obliged him to close his twelve years' pastorate at Brattleboro in 1900 when he removed to Andover. These data indicate only faintly the ability, the fidelity, and the sincere earnestness which gave marked success to all his pastorates and heartily endeared him to all his people.

Mr. Babbitt married, in Andover, Aug. 12, 1868, Mary French Abbot, daughter of Rev. Sereno T. and Sarah (French) Abbott. She survives him, with four sons, all of whom studied at Andover — Dr. James A. Babbitt of Haverford (Pa.) College, Winfred A. Babbitt, in business at Honolulu, Hawaiian Islands, Harold F. Babbitt, with the Presbyterian Publishing Company, New York, and Theodore Perley Babbitt, a clerk in Brattleboro—and three grandchildren. Besides these, Alice, a beautiful and beloved daughter died in 1899 at the age of sixteen, and Beth, an infant child, in 1875.

The last few weeks of Mr. Babbitt's life — especially after a visit at the summer residence of his brother-in-law, Dr. Francis E. Clark, at Pine Point — witnessed a promising improvement in his health; he rode out often, was cheery in spirits, read much, and wrote letters to the absent ones. After his last attack he was unable to speak and for part of the time was apparently unconscious, but on the evening of the Sabbath before his death, he rallied, recognized all about him, and enjoyed a farewell service of prayer, his face responding to the Twenty-third Psalm as it was recited. It befittted well the solemn scene. Though he walked through the valley of the shadow of death, he feared no evil; the Lord, who was his shepherd, was with him, His rod and His staff comforted him; and he will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.

The funeral was at Mrs. Abbott's on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock, Professor Day, who had known Mr. Babbitt intimately at Brattleboro, reading the scriptures and offering prayer, and Dr. F. E. Clark making a tribute to the Christian character and service of the deceased. The Gilbert quartette rendered very sweetly Tennyson's Crossing the Bar, which Mr. Babbitt had loved to hear and to repeat in his last days. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. B. F. Perkins of Hampton, N. H., who also conducted a brief service at Taunton, where the body was taken for burial. Representatives from his West Brattleboro church came, and beautiful floral offerings both from that parish and his previous one at Swanton testified to the enduring affection of the people to whom he had ministered. C. C. C.

FRANK FENLASON.

Word was received here early this week of the death of Frank Fenlason, a former Andover boy who has been with the U. S. army in Manila, in which place he died. His death occurred on July 31, and is believed to have been caused by a fever contracted by drinking impure water. He leaves to mourn his loss three brothers, Gilbert, Charles and George.

DR. MARY A. HALL.

Dr. Mary A. Hall of North Chelmsford died yesterday of heart disease at the home of Mrs. Butterfield street, where she was making a visit. Mrs. Hall was a sister of the late Mr. Butterfield and had frequently visited Andover. She practiced medicine in California for many years. She was 76 years of age and appeared to be in her usual health up to yesterday when she was suddenly stricken with heart trouble. Interment took place yesterday in Tyngsboro.

For a bilious attack take Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets and a quick cure is certain. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

BRILLIANT WEDDING

The Beautiful Home of Wm. M. Wood Scene of Beauty at Marriage Ceremony.

The most brilliant wedding which ever took place in Andover was solemnized at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening at "Arden," the beautiful Andover estate of William M. Wood, treasurer of the American Woolen company, when his niece, Miss Roxy Harris Green of New Bedford, and Frank Augustus Cummings, also of New Bedford were married.

Attractive as the house and the spacious grounds always are their beauty was enchanced for the occasion by elaborate floral decorations and an extensive illumination.

The wedding service was conducted by the Rev. Frederick Palmer, rector of Christ church, Andover. The impressive Episcopal ring service was used. The bride was given away by her uncle, Mr. Wood. Many relatives and intimate friends of the young couple witnessed the ceremony. A reception followed and later in the evening a bountiful wedding dinner was served in the Casino by Caterer Weber of Boston. After the feast some of the guests enjoyed dancing in the Casino, while others promenaded through the gardens and groves surrounding the lake.

Just at six o'clock Odell's orchestra of Boston, which was located in a miniature grove of palms in the north hall, began to play the inspiring strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march and the wedding procession proceeded to the north parlor, the ribbon girls and boys preceding and forming an aisle through which the bride and groom and their attendants passed. The ushers entered the parlor first, and then came the flower girl, followed by the bride, who was leaning on the arm of William M. Wood, her uncle. The bridegroom and the best man entered unobstrustively from a side door soon after the march started and stood beneath the floral canopy with Rev. Mr. Palmer, awaiting the bride.

The bride was attended by her former boarding schoolmate Miss Marie J. Wood of Andover and through the generosity of Mr. Wood the coachmen and hackmen to the number of seventy were served a banquet in the billiard room.

The event was favored by one of the pleasantest summer evenings of the season, a cool breeze tempering the almost midsummer heat.

maid of honor. The Dr. Frank S. Stetson of New Bedford. Miss Irene Wood of Andover served as flower girl. The ribbon girls were Miss Alice Garland and Miss Rosalind Wood of Andover. The ribbon boys were two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wood, William. M. Wood, jr., and Cornelius Wood. The ushers were Otis P. Wood of Plymouth, an uncle of the bride, Dr. Henry D. Prescott of New Bedford, Miner W. Wilcox of New Bedford and George M. Hopper, jr., of Bridgewater.

The bride looked charming in a gown of crepe de chene over white silk, trimmed with duchesse lace. She wore a bridal veil and had orange blossoms in her hair. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore white muslin de sole, cut decollete, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses. The flower girl wore white muslin de sole over pink silk, and carried a basket of pink rose buds. Both of the girl ribbon bearers were dresed in white.

The reception which followed the ceremony was attended by the largest number of out of town people that ever assembled at Andover on a similar occasion, and the guests represented every state in the Union as well as nearly every large city in the country.

The parlor in which the nuptial knot was tied was converted into a veritable flower bower by Thornton Bros. of Lawrence, who had charge of all the floral decorations. Rare palms and vines were tastefully arranged about the room and banks of white asters, with large bouquets of roses surrounded the canopy under which the bridal couple stood. White was the prevailing color in the decoration of this room and the south parlor was decorated in pink. There was a tasty floral display at the Casino, both in the banquet hall on the second floor and the dance hall on the first floor. During the wedding dinner the orchestra rendered a concert, being screened from the guests by palms and other potted plants.

Five hundred Japanese lanterns were used in illuminating the grounds and large quantities of red and green fire were burned during the evening. Innumerable electric lights added brilliancy to the scene. The lanterns were strung along hedges and shrubs and trees, a large oak tree in the garden being made particularly attractive by the tasty arrangement of lanterns among its knarled branches. The rustic bridge was also made a center of attraction by burning colored lights upon it. Hundreds of electric lights

Post 99, G. A. R. at Gloucester.

Last Saturday about twenty members of the local G. A. R. post attended the Annual Essex County Grand Army convention at Gloucester. After arriving there a parade was held in which Post 99 participated. After the parade the members went to Stage Fort park, where an excellent dinner was served. Most of the Andover veterans were then taken in launches and given a twenty-mile sail in the waters about Gloucester, winding up at about four o'clock at the home of John N. Cole, where steamed clams and "fixins" affored an appetizing repast, and a half hour social time made the end of a most enjoyable day.

A REMARKABLE RECORD

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy has a remarkable record. It has been in use for over thirty years; during which time many million bottles have been sold and used. It has long been the standard and main reliance in the treatment of croup in thousands of homes, yet during all this time no case has ever been reported to the manufacturers in which it failed to effect a cure. When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse or even as soon as the croupy cough appears, it will prevent the attach. It is pleasant to take, many children like it. It contains no opium or other harmful substance and may be given as confidently to a baby as to an adult. For sale by E. M. & W. A. Allen.

Football Prospects at P. A.

The candidates for the football team at P. A. were called out for the first time this season yesterday afternoon, by acting captain Thompson, about 30 candidates responding. Practice was held on the new Brothers field, which was dedicated last June, and is now in splendid condition. It is considered one of the finest athletic fields in the country.

Among the last year's men who were out were Thompson, Bullock, Conrad, Stuart, Andrews, Schildmiller, and Veeder. Captain Cates of last year's team acted as coach and put the men through some light work. It is expected that Captain Humbird will be back to school next week.

BASEBALL

Andover 8; Ballardvale 5.

In one of the fastest and most exciting baseball games ever played by local teams on the P. A. campus, the Andover baseball team succeeded in defeating the strong Ballardvale aggregation to the tune of 8 to 5, last Saturday afternoon. A large number of rooters of both teams were present and the support that each team received rivaled that of an Andover-Exeter game. Both pitchers were very effective, most of the score being attributed to errors. The pulling down of a high liner by Sweeney and McNally's stop of a grounder were the features of the game.

Scoring started in the first inning, Platt bringing in a run for Ballardvale on Hickey's hit. For Andover, McNally was the first to cross the plate, scoring on Pomeroy's sacrifice. In the third Knipes brought in another run on Rooney's passed ball. In the fourth a lucky one for [illegible], as five runs were scored. Maloney started it with a single through short and stole second. Pomerey walked. On Buchan's two-bagger to right, Maloney scored and Pomeroy went to third. Mander got to first on Lynch's error, Pomeroy and Buchan scoring. Mander stole second, Nolan struck out and Mander scored on Sweeney's hit to right. The next inning was characterized by two beautiful plays, a stop by McNally and a return to the plate by Nolan that cut off Platt's scoring. In Andover's half of the inning Maloney hit to left, stole second and third and scored on a poor throw by Rooney, Pomeroy walked and took second on same play. Stewart was thrown out on an assist by Lynch, Buchan struck out and Mander died at first, assisted by Drisko. In the first part of the eighth Wheatley was out at first assisted by Stewart, Lynch walked, stole second and scored on Dearborn's sacrifice. No more scoring was done for the rest of the game, both teams going out in one, two, three order.

The official averages for the Middlesex Baseball league have just been compiled by the secretary and it shows that the batting of the Punchard team was rather weak this season. The season as a whole has been rather unsuccessful, having lost 14 games out of 16 played. The teams which the local school competed with were composed of larger and older fellows and this is in a great measure accountable for the unlucky season. Following is the batting and fielding averages of the team, together with the list of games played:

WOMEN WHO POSE.

The Secrecy That Is Maintained by Artists About Their Models.

Every artist keeps in his studio a little book that he guards most sacredly. It contains his list of models. In some art studios of New York the "model book" contains 500 names of men and women who earn their living by posing. The betrayal of a single name by the artist would injure his reputation with the craft and make it difficult for him to employ the better class of models.

The chief reason for this secrecy is the fact that the outside world is prone to look askance at professional models. Most of them, however, are perfectly modest and good women, whose business, though apparently violating the letter of morality, preserves its spirit. In fact, behind the model's professional career is little but the commonplace.

American models are characterized by the same qualities of self respect and independence as American art. The principal fault artists and illustrators find with them is their lack of expression, but for beautiful figures and perfect features they are unexcelled.

The best models in the world are found in France and America, where the most general intelligence prevails in the class from which they chiefly come. In America many of them belong to middle class families who have met reverses.

He Had Followed Directions.

A little black boy sat on the soap box which served as a front step to the tumble down shanty. His skin was more than black. Here and there it looked as if it had been varnished. His fingers clung together when he attempted to open his hands, and films of silky sweetness were spun about him as he threw back his head and opened his mouth in epicurean ecstasy. Household Words explains this happy condition.

"Goodness, law!" exclaimed the old mammy, who came suddenly round the corner. "What yo' sittin' dat a-way for when I jes' been tryin' to clean yo' up? Ef yo' ain' went an' molassed yo'se'f f'm head to foot!"

"Dat ain' 'lasses, mammy."

"Whut's de use o' tryin' to make yo' look spectable, 'd like fer know? I wash yo' an' dress yo', an' den I tells yo' ter go an' use de comb, didn't I?"

"Yes'm. An' I look aroun', an' all de comb I could fin' was dis yere hoop-eycomb. But I don use dat, mammy; I sho'ly did."

The Wonders of Color.

A small and simple experiment can be tried by any reader which will go far to convince him or her what a debt we owe to color and what a good thing it is we have sunlight, which enables our eyes to take advantage of the beautiful hues of nature. Make a room quite dark and then burn some carbonate of soda in the flame of a bunsen gas burner. It will burn with an orange yellow light sufficiently strong to illuminate everything in the room, but you will realize with a sudden shock that, bright though the light is, all distinctions of color have vanished. Only light and shade remain. A crimson carnation, a blue violet, a red table cloth, a yellow blind—all look gray or black or white. The faces of those present look positively repulsive, for all natural color has disappeared.

No other experiment will so well convince those who have witnessed it how great a loss would be that of our sense for color.

Oriental Weddings.

At weddings festivals in Arabia, Persia and Morocco the women guests hold carnival all day, sometimes several days, but the poor little bride is in a room by herself fasting. She is being "decorated." Depilatories and tweezers remove all superfluous hair. She is scrubbed with pumice stone; her toes, fingers and hair are stained with henna, and her face is daubed with red and bits of gold paper. An oriental maiden has no voice in the selection of her husband. She seldom sees him till she is his wife, and he is not supposed to see her face until she unveils after marriage. Sometimes Cupid gets ahead of parents and guardians, the "wind" blows the veil aside, and the young eyes meet. Then there is some anxious maneuvering that the elders may make the right selection.

Unique Way to Secure One's Pay.

Tattooing is still a favorite personal decoration with some of the natives of Samoa, though not so fashionable there as formerly. Those who practice the art have an effective way of securing their pay. The color extends from the waist to the knees, no other part of the body being marked. In the small of the back the design shades off to a point which is never finished by the tattooer till his bill has been paid. As the incomplete design is public evidence of the wearer's indebtedness the artist seldom has to wait long for his money.

Friends and Relatives.

"So the poor fellow's dead?"

"Ah, yes, he had lots of friends; I don't suppose he had any enemies at all."

"Oh, yes, a few; he had several relatives."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Not the Genuine Kind.

"I'm afraid she isn't cut out for a society woman."

"Why not?"

"Well, she seems to have no idea of the pleasures of extravagance."—Detroit Free Press.

The pleasantest things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible.—Bovee.

OLD RESIDENT PASSED AWAY.

The death of Robert Bingham, who has been a resident of this city for the last 50 years occurred Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at his home, 6 Knox street. He had been ill for the past six months and in that time he underwent two operations at the local General hospital for the removal of a cancer of the stomach which was the cause of his death. He was brought to his home last Friday and since that time no hopes were entertained of his recovery.

The deceased was born in County Down in the north of Ireland, in the year 1830 and passed away at the age of 73 years. He was the son of Samuel and Mary (Russell) Bingham and was brought up in the environment of industrial pursuits. Coming to this country when about thirty-three years of age he settled in this city, where he has since lived. He was married to Jane Martin in the month of August, 1854. A son James who conducted the local postoffice news stand passed away some few months ago and since that time his father grieved greatly and it is thought that the loss hastened his death.

It had been some years since he had performed any work. He resided with his wife in the fine home they have provided at 6 Knox street. Besides a widow he leaves a son Samuel J. and a brother, John who resides at 179 West street in this city. He was a member of the Lawrence street Congregational church. Though not active in politics in any way he had always voted the Republican ticket.

Mr. Bingham was a venerable gentleman and being well known by many in this city and particularly the old residents, was highly esteemed and respected. His death will remove another who had lived to see the city grow from insignificance to its present proportions. The bereaved family have every kind sympathy of neighbors and friends.

The funeral will be held on Saturday afternoon and services will be held from the home at 2 o'clock. The Rev. William E. Wolcott will officiate and burial will be made in the family lot in Bellevue cemetery.

JAPANESE STUDENT VISITS THIS CITY.

The strenuous efforts of the Japanese to make progress in the lines of science are very evident even in this country. The forward movement is being conducted by the Japanese government, and salaried students of the Imperial Government are working in almost every part of the inhabited world. On Monday Takakichi Makayma Kogakushi, a student in the employ of the government of Yokohama, Japan visited in this city and previous to his visit here he had been through New York state Maine, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts.

He had a letter of introduction from the manager of the Fuigi Paper Company of Japan, where the J. H. Horne company has furnished the paper manufacturing machinery used by that company.

Kogakushi has been in this country for about 20 months and has been engaged in looking up improvements in machinery since that time.

His object is to take notice of all the latest and most remarkable and labor saving improvements in American machinery. He prepares a sketch as far as he can of the making of the appliance and its use. Whenever it is possible he photographs it. For this he carries with him a great camera and together with his explanation of the invention he sends a photograph to his superiors.

He carries with him several trunks in whic' the are samples of many fabrics that has gathered on his trip, and his photographs and other accessories to l.s labor. He takes samples of all varieties of paper that he comes upon.

The kind of manufacturing in which his country is mistly interested is paper making a th manufacture of paper mill machinery.

At the Burgess Sulphide Pulp company at Berlin, N. H., he spent several days studying the process of paper and pulp manufacture.

He has about finished with his American tour and intends to start immediately for England and France, where he will continue his work in similar lines.

In Boston and in New York he visited electrical plants and made a thorough study of them. The Japanese are copying from the American type of machinery and are trying to improve upon it wherever possible.

The Japanese government considers American machinery far ahead of that of any other country. The Japanese government has many representatives in various parts of the world.

Kogakushi says that he likes America and the people. He likes particularly well the high class of machinery and the numerous advances over other nations. He is a very intelligent fellow and speaks good English. He dresses as an American and makes a fine appearance.

QUARTERLY CONVENTION OF BAKERS' UNION.

The opening meeting of the quarterly convention of the Massachusetts state branch of Bakery and Confectionery International Union of America was called to order in Columbia hall, Pilgrim block, Saturday evening. Delegates representing cities in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine were present.

After the credentials had been passed upon and several resolutions presented, the meeting adjourned until 9 o'clock Sunday morning.

After the meeting, the delegates accepted an invitation from Bakers' Local 168 of this city to an entertainment in Carpenters' hall. An excellent musical program was furnished, with refreshments.

Among the cities represented were the following: Boston, Cambridge, Chelsea, Waltham, Brockton, Salem, Lynn, Lowell, Haverhill, Lawrence, Worcester, Springfield, Holyoke and Pittsfield, Mass., Concord and Manchester, N. H., Pawtucket and Providence, R. I., and Portland, Me.

The officers of the state branch are: President, John Duffy of Fall River; vice president, Patrick McMahan of Waltham; secretary, Mathew Steele of Worcester; treasurer, William Sands of Brockton.

THE SUNDAY SESSION.

About 65 delegates were present at the Sunday session held in Pilgrim hall. President Duffy presided. Several recommendations made by the committee on resolutions were favorably acted upon. It was voted that all grievances be reported to the state branch instead of to the national union. The convention also recommended that the international union adopt the referendum in reference to the apprenticeship question.

The matter of initiation fee was left to local option. The delegates voted to urge that all locals adopt the union label in making next year's contracts.

The locals submitted favorable reports. A report in regard to the cracker bakery trade showed the same to be in a favorable condition.

It was voted to hold the next meeting in Providence, R. I., Saturday Dec. 19. It was voted to demand of the American Federation of Labor four delegates to the annual convention instead of one.

It was voted to condemn the action of the Brockton Central Labor union in unseating the delegates of the Bakers' union and to endorse the stand taken by the union. A vote of thanks was tendered a Brockton editor for the part he took in bringing about a settlement of the differences between the master bakers and the union.

BRITISH NEWSPAPER MAN IN LAWRENCE.

John Hulme, special correspondent of the London Daily Mail, is making an extended visit to this country. The object of his sojourn here is to study education and the condition of the people generally. For a number of years Mr. Hulme has been in this country and has taken in a great number of interesting scenes and trips.

Among the places visited in this city is the Pacific mills. The works plant. Mr. Harry Wylde showed him the courtesy and Mr. Hulme manifested great pleasure during his visit there. Several of the public buildings and institutions have been seen by him.

Besides visiting here he has spent considerable time at Harvard college and obtained interesting interviews with the president and professors. At the Mass. Institute of Technology he was delighted with the methods used and the arrangement of doing work.

While at Harvard he was recommended to visit the local High school and Friday he put in the entire day in visiting that educational institution. Principal James D. Horne found him a fine scholar and a very critical personage. Mr. Hulme was deeply impressed with the plan of the school and the way in which the pupils are assigned to special work and also the fine appearance of the pupils of the school. While in the school he made many complimentary comments on the conduct of it.

WAS CRUSHED ON THE FALLS BRIDGE.

Raymond Robinson of Orchard street, Methuen, a conductor on the local division of the Boston & Northern street railway, was seriously injured Thursday morning by having his legs crushed between the running board of the car he was running and the iron work of the Falls bridge.

Robinson was collecting fares on the running board of his car as it was crossing the Falls bridge about 6.25 this morning. The car was bound for Andover. While on the bridge the rear truck left the rails and the car threw Robinson down between the board and the iron braces and he was pinioned there.

The police ambulance was summoned and Driver Shea and Janitor O'Connell responded with it. The conductor was removed to the general hospital, where he was treated. It was ascertained that he had a possible fracture of the ankle and had suffered a severe shaking up. There may be other injuries.

SOLDIER'S BODY INTERRED HERE

The remains of Augustine J. Lwyer, which arrived in this city Wednesday, from the Philippines, were interred this morning in the Immaculate Conception cemetery.

As services were held over the body in the Philippines it was not taken into any church.

The funeral cortege formed at 9 o'clock and proceeded to the cemetery, accompanied by a squad from Company F, under the command of Corporal M. F. Moynihan.

At the grave the usual military salute was fired and as the body was lowered into the grave taps were sounded over the grave of a true soldier, who had died for his country.

Letter to John A. Leitch.

Andover, Mass.

Dear Sir: You can put $100 in your pocket if you can put us in the wrong.

Devoe Lead and Zinc is all paint. It takes fewer gallons to paint a house than with mixed paints. It wears longer than lead and oil—mixed paints too. The State chemists of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, New York and Pennsylvania have analyzed it and say it is pure.

If you can prove that any of these things aren't so, we've a hundred dollars waiting for you.

If these things are true, what paint will you use next time you paint your house? What will you say to the people that ask you?—for doctors get asked queer questions.

If you know of an honest young painter who isn't getting the grip on life that he ought to have, give him this hint: Devoe lead and zinc—that'll do it, if he does his work as well as the paint does its.

Yours truly,
F. W. DEVOE & CO.
25 New York.

P. S.—E. M. & W. A. Allen sell our paint.

Lowell has won the pennant in the New England league race. The new champions won two games from Haverhill, while Nashua, their nearest competitor was up against the strong Fall River team, and was defeated.

Lawrence finishes in sixth place. Friday the local team's victory over Concord gave them a lead over New Bedford and the latter's defeat Saturday leaves the relative position of both teams unchanged, although Lawrence dropped the first game to Manchester at the Forest Saturday afternoon.

Haverhill was hopelessly distanced, and finished last.

Nichols, gave a report of the financial condition of the church and Deacon Lorin O. Norris, chairman of the missionary committee, gave a report of the work of that committee.

HORSE INJURED.

A horse owned by G. O. Stevens the stableman of Lawrence, was injured in a runaway on Pelham street Saturday night. Harry Kelly, the local milkman, was going home after making collections when he saw the horse coming toward him, traveling rapidly in a zig-zag course from one side of the street to the other. Mr. Kelly tried to turn out, but the other team collided with him and the horse was thrown. The driver was thrown out but not injured. The horse's shoulder was dislocated, but it will not have to be killed although it will probably be three months before it will be well again. Mr. Kelley's team was not injured.

PIANO ECONOMY.

The little extra which an Ivers & Pond may cost over an indifferent or merely good piano is the best part of the investment, and will pay rich dividends during the life of the instrument.

Nearly 300 American educational institutions, shrewd judges of piano value, cruelly practical sometimes, intelligently economical always, have purchased for their own use Ivers & Pond pianos. A single one of these, the New England Conservatory of Boston, has alone purchased 299 Ivers & Pond pianos in the last twenty years.

Besides being large manufacturers the Ivers & Pond Piano Co., are extensive handlers of pianos of all grades, new and used. Thus, whether a $50. square or a $1000. upright be desired they are in a position to supply it. Prospective purchasers will do well to write for their catalogue and list of bargains in slightly-used pianos, as well as explanation of their rental purchase plan—practically buying a piano by renting it. PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season was that solemnized Wednesday night at the Baptist church when Miss Grace H. Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kirk F. Brown, was united in marriage with Charles H. Cooper. Both are popular young people, a fact which was attested by the interest in the event.

The auditorium of the church, where the service was performed, was elaborately and beautifully decorated with a profusion of palms and hydrangeas. The decoration was done under the supervision of Mrs. L. O. Norris, from whose home the flowers were supplied.

Long before the arrival of the bridal couple, the church was well filled with guests, who were escorted to seats by these ushers: George A. Brown and John W. Hall, Jr., of Methuen, Howard M. Dyer of Revere and Henry Perkins of Haverhill. Guests were present from Fall River, Charlestown, Somerville, East Saugus, Lawrence, Haverhill and other places.

At 7.30 Miss Georgia B. Easton who presided at the organ rendered Lohengrin's wedding march, to the strains of which the bridal party entered. The bride, preceded by her attendants, entered by the middle aisle, leaning upon the arm of her father, and proceeded to the altar where she was met by the bridegroom. The bridesmaids were Miss Beatrice Wilkinson and Miss Mabel Holgate of Lawrence and Miss Eva B. Merrill and Miss Helen Fogg of Methuen. Miss H. Maud Merrill of Methuen was maid of honor, and Harry E. Brown was best man. The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white lansdowne, trimmed with lace. She wore a veil, and carried bride roses. The bridesmaids and maid of honor were dressed in white muslin and carried pink asters.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. W. Blakeslee, pastor of the church, the Episcopal service being used. The bride was given away by her father.

The service over, the bridal party left the church while Miss Easton rendered Mendelssohn's wedding march. They were driven to the home of the bride's parents on Broadway, where a reception was held. The house was artistically decorated with flowers and evergreens. The parlor, where the newly wedded couple received was decorated with pink and white asters and dahlias. Red salvia was used in the dining room and nasturtiums were used in the sitting room. The balustrades in the hall were covered with golden rod and hydrangeas.

During the reception Miss Mabel Holgate presided at the piano. A wedding repast was served by Caterer Page of Lowell. Mrs. Fred Swain and Mrs. John Maguire had charge of serving the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left on the late train for a week's wedding trip, and upon their return will take up their residence on Broadway for the present.

They were the recipients of a large number of choice presents, including china ware, cut glass and silver. A silver service was given by the past noble grands of Minerva Rebekah lodge.

ADVICE TO YOUNG WRITERS.

"If you have a good incident about which to group a story," said one of the literary agents who undertake the job of selling the young writer's copy, "that incident is worth a certain amount of narrative. It may be equal to 150 words or it may be strong and intense enough to make 3000 possible.

Young writers over elaborate. One came yesterday with a story more than 3000 words long. I told the author that the central idea was good and the story readily marketable if he reduced it to 1500 words. Of course, he was furious and will send around the story to the magazines. After it has been refused by all of them he will condense it to 1500 words and bring it back to me.

"And how he will criticise the taste of the magazines readers which compel him to condense his story. He will say that he is not allowed to put in character, observation, wit or anything but the skelto of his plot.

"That is unfortunately true so far as the beginner is concerned. In his case the editors want a story quickly told. After he has acquired a reputation it may be possible for him to digress from the facts of his plot. But he must stick to business until he is well enough known to make people read whatever he writes whether it is interesting or not."—New York Sun.

HOW LONG MOSQUITOES LIVE.

It is not known just how long mosquitoes can live but their average life is much longer than is ordinarily supposed. Thousands of them live through winter, hibernating or asleep in dark places in barns or house cellars. In sparsely settled localities, where they cannot find such places for shelter, they live through the winter in hollow trees, in caves and holes under unturned trees, and, even though the temperature may fall far below freezing, they are not winter killed; but on the approach of warm weather become active again. Mosquitoes are frequently seen flying about in the woods before the snow has wholly left the ground.—William Lyman Underwood in the Popular Science Monthly.

A few years ago Phil May drew a picture of a cricket match, which Today says preyed on the mind of Dr. Grace, who afterwards raised a protest. About 2 o'clock in the morning the cricket champion was routed out of bed by a special telegraph messenger to read the humorist's reply, which ran: "To keep his hands warm.—Phil May!"—London Globe.

Electric and telephone wires were badly mixed up as a result of the wind.

Massachusetts avenue is a favorite thoroughfare these days for the ever increasing autoists. The smooth state highway gives them an opportunity to speed their machines to the limit of the law and sometimes it is noticed that precaution is thrown to the winds and the utmost speed is crowded onto the touring cars which pass along Sunday afternoon about a hundred machines passed along the avenue on their way between Lawrence and Salem.

The White Mountains have gained the title "the foremost summer resort in America", and, as the summer season is passing, preparations begin for the second season of the year, the Autumn.

Beginning with the middle of September, the mountains take on new life. They are more beautiful than at any other time of year. Hundreds of guests are pouring in and the pilgrimages to the interesting places are daily occurrences.

This is the time to go through the Crawford Notch. The dazzling beauty of the foliage, the glittering cascades, the music of the song birds, transport one into a paradise. The Summit daily receives its quota of visitors and the clear view at this season is remarkable. Mt. Washington has changed its surroundings and is more beautiful than a month previous. The interyale is still magnificently grand, but the beauty is a trifle more marked; the sameness of the green verdure is no longer observed. The master hand of Nature has produced a picture far prettier than a painter's possibility. The same at Crawford, Bartlett, Jefferson, Lancaster, etc.

This is the season then to visit the mountains. The Boston & Maine Railroad excursion rates to the White Mountains take effect September 15th. Tickets will be good going to October 10th and returning not after October 12th.

Low rates will be in effect for all side trips. Special rates will be made at hotels, etc.

For information in regard to stations and railroad rates, see Boston & Maine posters, or send to the General Passenger Department, Boston & Maine Railroad, Boston.

Tickets will be sold at this station and other principal stations on the Boston & Maine Railroad.

FELL INTO WATER.

What came very nearly being a drowning accident occurred on Saturday afternoon. Frank Sullivan, the son of John Sullivan of Belmont street was fishing in the part of Sutton's mill pond above the Boston and Maine railroad bridge when he accidentally fell into the water. He sank below the surface twice, and as he was going down for the last time he was seized by Thomas Gardner who effected his rescue.

The water at this point is quite deep a wall having been built out into the stream from which he was fishing. He was accompanied by a number of smaller boys who hardly realized the danger but their cries succeeded in attracting the attention of Thomas Gardner who lives near by. It was a narrow escape and all were thankful that it resulted in nothing but a ducking.
